

Company Profile

1. The organization:

Incorporated in Bangladesh, v-Generation Limited is an Australian-Bangladesh joint venture Company specialized in software development where a group of experienced developers are working together.

2. Our Strengths:

v-Generation believes in quality over quantity. To ensure quality our organization ensures that every project undergoes its necessary lifecycle. Here in v-Generation, we commit to specialization, meaning every end of our business is segregated to bring about maximum output. An efficient research and development team is in place to ensure scope for progress and continued development. One of our most identified key strength has been in our commitment to delivering well within our provided timeframe enclosing optimum quality. We aim to ensure the highest standard and not just reaching the objective.

4. Employee strength:

Here at v-Generation we believe in team work as well as each team member's efficiency. Our selection of employees filtered from a large pool of graduates and veterans and in order to provide maximum output it is necessary that we acquire the finest ingredients.

5. Discover v-Generation

v-Generation helps organizations define, build, measure, and expand their Internet strategy and presence. We practice Customer Experience Management. Your customer is our focus. Your brand experience is our palette.

Our capabilities include strategy, user-centered design, personalization, content management, application development, electronic marketing programs and site optimization. Whether you need to introduce new products, drive sales, reduce customer support costs, build loyalty or engage disparate channels we have the experience to help you drive results.

6. The Way We Work

Online, the customer is in control. Delight them and they click-through. Confuse them and they're gone. The method we employ helps companies align their strategies, site experiences, brand platforms, and technical architecture to exceed the needs of customers and deliver business results.

We Listen

In order to thoroughly identify the scope and target of each project, v-Generation works intimately with clients to listen and fully understand their business needs and goals.

We Translate

Putting the plan into action is a major step that takes our deep understanding of a client's business and translates it into workable solutions that are both realistic and compelling.

We Extend

Beyond the creation of individual solutions, we work with clients to extend their message into all interactive arenas and shepherd their brand presence as it evolves.
