- MVP (Minimum Viable Product) Development

Creating MVP solutions that bring life to your ideas and allowing you to evaluate what features, functions, and segments of your application to extend, scale back or edit.

- Your Remote Extended Team

Working as your dedicated extended tech team and creating solutions that cater specifically to your business and its core problems.

- IoT Applications Development

In the wake of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, the world is experiencing daily technological advancements and inventions. There are so many technological advancements that it is becoming more difficult to keep track of them all! From manufacturing using intelligent machines to Artificial Intelligence used by an app on your mobile phone, there are so many to keep track of! Of all the technological advancements and inventions, one stands out – IoT (Internet of Things). IoT is an umbrella word for a set of hardware or devices that can communicate with one another over the internet to form a system.

In SoftHut we have set IoT lab equipped with experienced IoT engineers. The applications of IoT technology have a wide spectrum. Below is mentioned a list of a few such applications where we can have capacity to work on:

- Traffic monitoring
- Fleet management
- Agriculture
- Hospitality
- Healthcare
- Housing facilities
- Smart grid and energy saving
- Infrastructure management
- Manufacturing
- Supply chain
