What We Do

BITL designs, installs, and implements services seamlessly integrated electronic security solutions for a wide range of verticals and industries. Serving single-site customers, as well as those with a global multi-site footprint, AGTL will design a solution to meet both your current needs as well as your future growth plans. Most importantly, BITL provides a wide array of professional services to ensure your investment is protected and continues to operate as originally designed

Digital Forensics

BITL's formidable digital forensic experience has developed a patented model for a forensic laboratory – one of the most comprehensive, efficient, and fully scalable ones in the market. Key to its success is the speed of work without data corruption.

Our work in this field has been applied to a number of vertical industry sectors, such as marine, retail, comms, and automotive, as well as military and law enforcement bodies.

Our expertise ranges from networking to security implementation, from forensic computer evaluations to evidence processing. In fact, many forensics experts consider our products the most versatile, usable, and durable in the market as they have all been fully field tested to work with the major operating systems and forensic applications, as well as being employed worldwide by law enforcement agencies and the forensic divisions of global corporations.

Our product line is fully upgradable and non-proprietary, which makes it compatible with all major components. Our solutions cover the full product range from standalone examination devices, specialized phone stands, forensically sound cloning devices to faraday boxes with VCD and triage kiosk stands.

BITL is an independently managed premier European Cyber Security provider with a global client base.
